Friday January 29   Death Claims Pioneer Arlingtonite

Last Sunday evening at 8:30, Mrs. S. Yates, age 78, a pioneer citizen of this city went to sleep after an illness of about four weeks to awaken in another world where she has gone to bask in the home she has been preparing for these many years. Mrs. Yates was Miss Nancy Malinda Vaught before her marriage, was born in Shelby county Texas, Feb. 28, 1853; was married to Sanford Yates Sr. Nov. 12, 1874 moving to Tarrant county soon afterwards, and lived here from that time until her passing.

Mrs. Yates has seen the city of Arlington grow from a very small neighborhood to its present population, and was always very proud of the fact that she was a pioneer citizen of this city. She made friends and kept them and it was said by the pastors who spoke at her funeral that “Mrs. Yates attended more prayer meetings at her church, more funerals than any other woman in the city.” That was her way of doing her Christian duty and because she loved the association of Christian friends. She attended funerals because it was a privilege to sympathize with those in sorrow. Her good works will continue to live in the memory of those who were comforted in time of trouble. The last service she attended was on Wednesday evening before Christmas, The weather was bad, but loyalty to her church and friends meant more than anything else.

Mrs. Yates was a member of the Baptist church of this city for 35 years and her presence will be missed by every member of that church. The floral offering was a testimony of what her life meant to the entire city.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Rouse, being assisted by Rev. S. M. Bennett at the Baptist church Monday afternoon at 2:30. Interment at City Cemetery beside the grave of her husband. Song services were especially appropriate to the occasion: Mesdames H. E. Cannon and Chester Farris, sang a duet, “Rock of Ages.” Mrs. B. B. PIONEER CITIZEN DEAD

Friends of John Santerre of the Watson community sympathize with him in the passing of his uncle, Germain Santerre, age 83 at Dallas Saturday.

John and Gus Santerre came to the Watson community only a few years ago, bought acreage and started to planting orchards, vineyards and truck patches. Now they have about 400 acres of land, and every foot of it has been utilized for something that will produce. They have their own lights, water and everything cities have for convenience. They are active in social as well as the church activities and their presence has meant much to the community. Some of their fine traits of character have been handed down from Uncle Santerre and the following has been written of Germain Santerre, one of the founders of “Utopian” colony at Dallas.

Funeral services for Germain Santerre, 85, Dallas county pioneer who died Saturday at his home on Ravinia drive were held Sunday afternoon from the Lamar & Smith chapel at 2 o’clock.

Rev. Eugene Slater, pastor of the Cockrell Hill Methodist church, officiated and burial was in the Fish Trap cemetery.

With his parents, Francois and Marie Santerre, two brothers and two sisters, Germain Santerre came to Texas at the age of 6.

The pallbearers were grandsons of Mr. Santerre. They were Donovan Banks, R. G. Santerre, Elmer Santerre, Clifford Santerre, Lee Santerre and Ray Santerre.

He was, at the time of his death Saturday, one of the few survivors of La Reunion, the French settlement near the present Cement City, where 200 families came seeking their fortunes in an Utopian community seventy-nine years ago.

Very few of the settlers knew anything of farming, most of them being professional men in their native land and the women wives and daughters of French aristocracy.

The land for which they paid a fabulous price was worthless for farming, tools they had brought from France by sailing vessel and scow, then by ox cart from Houston to Dallas.

Germaine Santerre grew to manhood, learned the ways of the Americans and how to till the soil. Until he reached the age where he could no longer work, he pitted his strength and knowledge against the earth to gain a livelihood.

With his death there passes a man who has seen the county grow from a mere cow trail to a metropolis.

When he came to Dallas there was a bare handful of residents. There was a court house and a few stores about the square. But from his home on Ravinia drive a few months before his death he could look across the Trinity river bottoms and see the skyscrapers of a metropolis and know that he was justified in remaining as one of the few original settlers of the French colony who chose to seek out their life’s work here.

Gathered about the chapel Sunday while the last rites were being said were sturdy young members of the Santerre family who are carrying on the work as Germain Santerre, pioneer of the stock, carried on after Francois.

There was a very sad occurrence in our community last week. Mr. Frank Goodman and Edward Appleton both of Arlington were hunting on the Gibbons farm when Edward began complaining of hurting in his chest, and they started to go to their car which was about half a mile from where they were, when Edward suddenly fell. Mr. Goodman ran to Mr. Fannings for help, an ambulance was called as soon as possible, but he was dead before help could arrive. Edward was well known in this community and a host of relatives and friends are left to mourn his death. May God’s richest blessings rest upon these bereaved ones during this hour of sadness. ROAD GANG FINDS PART OF SKELETON OF WOMAN IN PIT

Remnants of the skeleton of a woman were found by the county road gang digging gravel Thursday afternoon in a pit eight miles north of Arlington.

The bones had been buried for 40 or 50 years, in the opinion of physicians asked by Sheriff Wright to examine the find. The body apparently had been buried in a coffin, Wright said, since bits of decayed wood, some still held together with nails, were found among the bones.

Old timers in the neighborhood remembered that a man named Burdell died in camp near the present pit 30 years ago, but belief the skeleton was his was precluded by the physicians opinion it was a woman’s.

Shovels of county prisoners getting out road material struck the bones 4 ½ feet below the surface.

The many neighbors and friends of Henry L. Johnson, Sr. extend their deepest heartfelt sympathy to him and his remaining family since they experienced the sad misfortune of the death of his youngest daughter, Mrs. Lou Ella Barnett, which came on last Tuesday evening at eight o’clock at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Linna Mae Markel, in El Paso, Texas. Mrs. Barnett contracted that dreadful disease, tuberculosis, about six months ago, and about three

Mrs. Barnett was born in Miflin, Tennessee, near Jackson, twenty-three years ago, later moving to Arkansas and then to Texas with her parents. She was converted at an early age and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, south, in which she lived a consecrated life. She was united in marriage with Dan R. Barnett in Ft. Worth in February of 1928, to which union there was born one daughter, Mary Lou, now about 18 months old.

Moore Funeral Home of Arlington had charge of the funeral arrangements. The services were conducted by Rev. S. L. Culwell at the First Methodist Church in Arlington at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, with interment beside her mother in Parkdale cemetery.

Besides the above mentioned, Mrs. Barnett is survived by another sister, Mrs. Mabel Dunkin of Meridian, and three brothers: Bernard and Carlton Johnson of Ft. Worth and Henry L. Johnson, Jr., of Handley.

Mr. Barnett and little daughter are now making their home with his mother in Ft. Worth.

A SALE HELD IN 1849

Mrs. Etta Macraye

The following sale notice was published 83 years ago by a friend of Mrs. E. N. Yarbrough’s father, W. R. King, who now lives in Grand Prairie. The writer of this article is well known by Mr. King, and will give an idea of what people possessed of value in those days.

Below is an account of a sale which took place near Versailles, Kentucky, in 1849. It was taken by my grandfather (then a young man) from the Live Stock Reporter, a primitive paper of that day.

He gave the paper to a daughter who gave it to me when a very young girl. Many people were leaving for Oregon Territory about that time, and all the sales I have heard that, Grandfather said, were large and of plentiful amount. This sale reads as follows:

*Having sold my farm and am leaving by ox team for Oregon Territory on March 1, 1849, I will sell all my personal property except two ox teams, Buck and Ben, and Lon and Jerry. The property consists of the following: Two milk cows, 1 grey mare and colt, 1 pair of oxen, 1 yoke, 1 baby yoke, 2 ox carts, 1 iron plow with wooden mole board, 800 feet of poplar weather boards, 1,000 feet three-foot clapboards, 1,500 tenfoot fence rails, 1 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs made of white ash timber, 10 gallons maple syrup, 2 spinning wheels, 30 pounds mutton tallow, 1 large loom made by Jerry Wilson, 100 split hoops, 100 empty barrels, 1 32-gallon barrel of Johnson-Miller whiskey seven years old, 20 gallons apple brandy, 1 40-gallon copper still, 4 sides of oak-tanned leather, 1 dozen wooden pitchforks, a one-half interest in the tan yard, 1-32 caliber rifle, bullet molds and powder horn, a rifle made by Ben Miller, 50-gallons of soft soap, hams, bacon and lard, 40 gallons of sorghum molasses, 6 head of fox hounds, all softmouthed but one. At the same time I will sell my negro slaves—two men, 35 and 50 years old, two boys, 12 and 18 years old, two mulatto wenches, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to same party as I will not separate them.

A local business man didn’t get the money when he wrote a farmer in West Texas recently asking a payment on a loan which was being carried and which was long overdue. But he did get a letter which has given him considerable pleasure in showing to friends over town. It follows:

“I knewed what I owed you. I ain’t forgot you. When some other fool pay me, I pay you. If this wuz judgment day and you wuz no more prepared to meet your Maker than I am this debt, you shore would go to hell. Hoping you do this, I am,

Falls from Chair Dead

Tuesday afternoon about 3 o’clock Mrs. J. R. Noah 116 Roger Street died almost instantly from heart failure. Mrs. Noah and daughter, Miss Lula Mae were spending the afternoon talking and planning for the approaching marriage of Miss Noah to Robert Stewart when Miss Noah stepped to another part of the house to get a drink of water. Hearing a noise she immediately returned to find her mother slumped from the chair in which she was sitting only a few minutes before.

Mrs. Noah had not fully recovered from the shock of the death of her son, Robert, about three years ago and was being treated for high blood pressure, but was unusually bright and cheerful that morning stating to her husband before he departed for his work at Ft. Worth that she was feeling fine.

Mrs. Noah was one of the most beloved women of this entire community. She was a great lover of home and her children. Her life has been spent in making a real home for her family. She was a good neighbor and her kind disposition made her friends by the score. Her life will remain an inspiration to everyone who knew and loved her.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah were childhood sweethearts, both being reared in Franklin County, Miss., and going to the same school. As the years went by they became engaged and were married in April, 1896, coming to Texas on their honeymoon. They arrived in Ellis county, near Mansfield where they made their home for several years, then moved to West Texas for about two years, returning to their old home in Ellis county where they lived until 12 years ago when they moved to Arlington, where they resided since that time.

Mrs. Noah was Miss Mattie Sisk before her marriage, was born July 2, 1877, the family celebrating her 54th birthday last July. She was converted and joined the Methodist Church at the age of 14.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. J. H. Stewart of Belton former pastor and Rev. S. L. Culwell, pastor of the Methodist church officiating. Interment at Parkdale cemetery beside her son, Robert.

Survivors are her husband and nine children, four girls, Mrs. H. E. Dimton, Ft. Worth, Mrs. Boyd Lawson, and Miss Lula Mae Noah, Arlington, Mrs. J. M. Dunton, Houston, and five boys, Russel and James Noah of Ft. Worth, Sam, Charlie and Harry of Arlington, two brothers who live in Tennessee, Walter and George Sisk.

Mrs. J. W. Jennings, Ex-Arlington Woman Dies in Ft. Worth

Mrs. J. W. Jennings, former resident of Arlington, died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Taylor, at Ft. Worth. Mrs. Jennings was familiarly known to the citizens of this city as Mother Jennings, for it was she who was always ready to lend a helping hand in the community when there was sickness or distress.

Mother Jennings often carried flowers to the sick and spent many hours beautifying the flower garden at the Methodist church where those flowers are still blooming. It was Mother Jennings who was instrumental in placing the electrical “Welcome” sign on the church grounds which greets hundreds of people each day and night as they traverse the highway. She made her home with a daughter, Mrs. H. D. Wallace, and family until about two years ago when she... moved to Fort Worth to live with another daughter, when Mr. and Mrs. Wallace moved to Dallas. Her presence was keenly missed from this community and more especially from the church where she worshiped so long before moving to Ft. Worth. Knowing she will never return here her absence will be felt more keenly. Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Arlington Heights Methodist church in Fort Worth, with interment at 10:30 a. m. Monday in Merkel, Texas.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Hugh D. Wallace and Mrs. W. M. Jenkins of Dallas, Mrs. Wesley Edwards of Sweetwater and Mrs. J. C. Taylor, and five sons, S. R. Jennings of Abilene, Irving Jennings of Douglas, Ariz.; Ray Jennings of Pima, Ariz.; Taylor Jennings of Houston and D. M. Jennings of Glenmore, La.

Friday March 11  OLD FASHIONED OR MODERN

What a feeling it is to think of them,
Old fashioned girls, with skirt and rim,
Dresses that stuffed like a bale of hay,
When they dressed it took them half the day.

Slips they wore numbered past three,
Stockings of cotton came above the knee,
Dresses measured from neck to feet,
Fitted like sacks and they called them neat.

First date they had at the age of eighteen;
Date would arrive, the mother entered the scene,
They sat in the parlor, mother, daughter, and date,
’Till he left at nine bells, considered very late.

But these modern girls of recent days,
With their flirting, slang, and up-to-date ways,
Will make her own dates at the age of thirteen
And tell her dear mother, “As a lover, he’s keen!”

The rest of this poem you can write for yourself,
As for me I’m laying my pen on the shelf
‘Cause what the girls wear in this day and time
Could easily be written on half of a line.

Friday June 10  DEATH OF MRS. W. R. SHELTON

Saturday morning at 9:30 Mrs. W. R. Shelton, the beloved wife, mother and neighbor, ceased to suffer, and was gathered unto the Lord whom she had served so well throughout a long and useful life. Mrs. Shelton had been in ill health for the past two years but not until two weeks ago was she confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton had been with their son, W. A. Shelton, and family in Alvord for several months, but on account of her health failing so fast, and as she seemed to realize her time was short, wanted to return home to die, so they returned home the first of April. From that time on she failed fast, and her death was not unexpected.

She was a loving wife, mother and a good neighbor, always devoting her time to her family. It is said that her devotion to Mr. Shelton was the outstanding purpose of her life. They had been married almost 53 years, having celebrated their golden anniversary three years ago, and so often she said she hoped that both might live another score years anyway.

Queen wandered miserably around the yard of a little home in Bedford, Texas, Tuesday. Queen, just a puppy, tried vainly to rescue her three-year-old master, Ellsworth Holden, when he fell into a pond. The dog led the child’s father to the body, and torn flesh on the neck and ear showed plainly the vain efforts of the little dog to pull the boy from the water. In the picture Queen sits by the bank of the pond where the little boy drowned.

W. T. Ponder of Fort Worth, who shot down 11 enemy planes in the World War, lost this time. Here is the plane in which he crossed the Mexican border with 627 bottles of beer, and was arrested at San Angelo when he had to come down for gas. Customs officers saw him cross the border and followed him all the way to San Angelo in another plane.
